Leland Pays Down $500,000 to Secure Sixth National Depositors.

The Broken Bank Still Closed and Not Likely to Resume.

More Serious Deficiencies Discovered in the Lenox Hill's Books.

Crowds of Almost Ruined Tradespeople Clamoring for Justice.

Classen and Pell Locked Up in Ludlow Street Jail.

Shortly before noon today the following notice was posted in the windows of the Sixth National Bank:

Mr. Leland has advanced funds sufficient to guarantee the payment of depositors in full at as early a date as proper arrangements can be made for that purpose.

U. S. Bank Examiner.
This statement was confirmed later by President Frederick D. Tappan, of the Gallatin National Bank, who is at the head of the Clearing-House Committee.

"A syndicate has been formed," said Mr. Tappan, "for the purpose of liquidating in full the claims of depositors in the Sixth National Bank."

Mr. Leland has, through his counsel, Mr. Wetmore, contributed funds to this syndicate to the amount of $500,000, which will insure the payment of every depositor in the bank.

"You may say that every claim will be liquidated at an early date next week."

"Who compose the syndicate?" was asked by the reporter.

"That I am not at liberty to state," replied President Tappan, "but there is not the slightest doubt that the promises that have been made will be fulfilled."

NOT LIKELY TO RESUME.
"Will the bank be able to resume its business?"

"That is a question I am not able to answer. It will have to go into liquidation first, for the syndicate which I have referred to has only to do with securing the claims of depositors. The bank will have to go into the hands of a receiver."

Lawyer Wetmore, who was in Mr. Tan-pen's office at the time, corroborated the statements of the President and said that his client, Mr. Leland, was ready to do all in his power to secure the depositors from loss.

THAT MYSTERIOUS LETTER.
In regard to the letter written by Peter J. Classen to President Coe, of the American Exchange Bank, Mr. Tappan said that the writing had been turned over to him and that he did not propose to give it out for publication.

As has been already stated, Classen declared in this letter that Mr. Leland knew that he was to be paid for his stock out of the sale of the bank's securities.

When President Tappan was asked if he did not think that Mr. Leland's voluntary contribution was an admission by the latter that he had not acted in a strictly business-like manner in his transactions with Classen's syndicate, he replied that he could not discuss that question.

The Sixth National will remain closed until arrangements are made for paying off depositors.

An intimate friend of Cashier Colson told an EVENING WORLD reporter today how glibly the cashier had urged Mr. Leland against selling his stock.

LELAND WAS WARNED.
According to his statement, as soon as Colon heard that President Leland was going to dispose of his stock he went to him and begged and pleaded with him to give up the idea.

"Why should I?" replied Mr. Leland.
"The stock is mine and I can do what I please with it."

"But think of the other stockholders," said Mr. Leland. "They are able to take care of their own affairs. I am not responsible for them."

CLASSEN TENDERLY TREATED No Marshals to Guard Him and a Whispered Consultation in Court.

President Peter J. Classen, under arrest on the charge of securing the Sixth National Bank, carrying off three-quarters of a million of its securities, bringing down in one crash, not only the Sixth National, but the Lenox Hill Bank, has met with the most courteous and delicate consideration from United States Marshal Jacobus and his aides.

Instead of being safely lodged in Ludlow Street Jail after his two days' evasion of the marshals, he was allowed to go to the Astor House and stay there unmolested.

At 8.30 this morning an EVENING WORLD reporter saw three well-dressed men walking along the main corridor of the Astor House. They left the house by the main entrance, corner Broadway, and entered the Post-Office. Taking an elevator they rode to the third floor, and went to United States Marshal Jacobus's office.

Mr. Jacobus was one of the trio. Another was Gen. Classen, and the third was Classen's lawyer, Gen. Benjamin B.
Foster.

Classen and Foster went into the Marshal's private room, where George H. Pell, Classen's accomplice, passed the time yesterday while his friends strove to get bail for him. Marshal Jacobus stopped to talk with an EVENING WORLD reporter.

NO PRECAUTIONS TAKEN.
"How did Classen sleep last night?" asked the reporter.

"I don't know," replied the Marshal.
"I was not there."

"You had some deputy marshal there though, didn't you?"

"No, I just left Gen. Classen in custody of Lawyer Foster, and went home about 11 o'clock last night."

Deputy Marshal Bernhard had great trouble to get Classen out of bed. He was not at all sleepy, but was full of energy. He was taken to jail as soon as he was arrested," suggested the reporter.

STRAINING A POINT.
The Marshal's brow clouded somewhat as he answered.

"Strictly speaking Classen was not arrested. At least he voluntarily submitted to arrest. When Gen. Foster came here yesterday he said to me: 'General, I want your client, Classen. If he comes forward and surrenders himself I will guarantee that he does not go to jail tonight. If he does not, my men will pick him up, and to jail he goes.'"

"Will Bernhard followed Foster and would have got Gen. Classen anyhow last night, but the General interposed."

"That was to my promise. I let him stop in the Astor House. I stayed up with him until 11 o'clock."

COMRADES AND FRIENDS.
"Classen and I are friends. He and I and Gen. Foster were in the room when we had a very pleasant evening recalling events of the late war. I knew Classen when he commanded a regiment in Spinoza's army."

POLOGIES FOR CLASSEN.
"You will find that he is only a tool of Pell's in this matter, and that he will come out all right in the end. I called for him this morning and found him and his lawyer in the room on the top floor of the Astor House last night."

Gen. Classen's name did not appear in the list of names of those who had been arrested.

Classen said he did not get home until after 11 o'clock Thursday night, and that he came to this city at 9 o'clock yesterday morning.

Deputy Marshal John Kennedy, who had the warrant for his arrest Thursday night, told the EVENING WORLD reporter that he had not seen Gen. Classen, but did not get home until after 11 p. m. that night, and that when he found that his man wanted was at home he went to the residence of the Commissioner of Prisons and consulted with him about what was best to be done.

The warrant he had was not good to arrest Classen outside of this city, he said, and he asked Commissioner Shields if he would arrest the United States Marshal for Brooklyn and have him arrested, but he claims that Mr. Shields advised him not to do so.

MORE FAVORITISM SHOWN.
At 10 o'clock Classen should have been arrested by Commissioner Shields in the latter's court in the Post-Office, but there was not even an appearance of an arrangement.

Classen entered the room with his lawyer, and was given a room in the city of New York, where he was to remain until he was removed to the city of New York, where he was to remain until he was removed to the city of New York.

HEARD IN WHISPERS.
Then Mr. Foster, Assistant United States District Attorney Rose and Commissioner Shields gathered about the attorney's desk, and in low whispers or almost inaudible tones argued as to what amount of bail should be required from Classen.

Classen, who was in the room with his lawyer, and was given a room in the city of New York, where he was to remain until he was removed to the city of New York, where he was to remain until he
was removed to the city of New York.

THE SIXTH NATIONAL.
The great increase did not startle Mr.
Foster. He said, "All right," and the matter was "fixed up" very nicely for Mr. Classen.

The room was crowded with reporters and others interested in the case. With one or two exceptions no one could hear the whispered conference between the prosecuting officers, the Commissioner and the prisoner's lawyer.

As they rose to leave the room the reporter asked Gen. Classen if he did not think that the matter was "fixed up" very nicely for Mr. Classen.

"Oh, no," he replied, "it was not fixed up at all. It was a very nice arrangement, but it was not fixed up at all. It was a very nice arrangement, but it was not fixed up at all."

THE FORMAL ACCUSATION.
Following is the charge of United States District Attorney Rose, on which Mr. Classen was held.

A. P. Hepburn, being duly sworn, says that he is a National Bank Examiner in the city of New York, and on information and belief that he is a National Bank Examiner in the city of New York, and that he is a National Bank Examiner in the city of New York, and that he is a National Bank Examiner in the city of New York, and that he is a National Bank Examiner in the city of New York.

dated at New York, N. Y., on the 20th day of January, 1930, and addressed to the Honorable the United States District Attorney, Southern District of New York, at New York, N. Y.

JOHN A. HEPBURN,
National Bank Examiner, in and to the Honorable the United States District Attorney, Southern District of New York, at New York, N. Y.

Sworn before me this 20th day of January, 1930.

At 10 o'clock Pell was brought from the jail to the United States Marshal's office, where he met his very close friend, Gen. Classen.

Ex-Judge Donohue, of the Supreme Court, was his counsel.

CLASSEN'S SEARCH FOR BAIL.
Friends of Gen. Classen visited him in the Marshal's private room all morning, but none of them was friendly enough to go his bail for $20,000. (Commissioner Shields said he would not until 4.30 o'clock this afternoon in order to give him a chance to get bail.)

He was told that if he did not get the necessary amount before night he would be taken to Ludlow Street Jail.

He may have company, for it was said on every hand that warrants were out for the arrest of Pell's partner, Charles E.
Wallack, and also for James Simmons, President of the Lenox Hill Bank.

Commissioner Shields, who alone has the power of issuing warrants, would neither admit nor deny that warrants were out for the last two men named.

"But you issued four warrants, did you not?" persisted an EVENING WORLD reporter.

"I didn't say so," was his non-commis-sional answer.

RUIN OF THE LENOX HILL.
The Lenox Hill Bank turns out to be more deeply involved than was at first supposed. Instead of there being a deficiency of $100,000, the figures will probably reach $150,000.

In addition to this the Bank Examiners, J. C. Covell and H. H. Mellins, have discovered other transactions that are exceedingly shady and which have delayed them in making their report.

LOOKING FOR A RECEIVER.
Prospects of civil suits loom up on all sides, and it was stated by a post office authority this morning that arrangements were made at a late hour last night to apply to the courts for a receiver.

DEPOSED BY THEIR VICTIMS.
A large crowd of angry depositors gathered on the sidewalk in front of the bank this morning. They were loud in their denunciation of the bank officials, and particularly of ex-President Charles A.
Tromp and ex-Cashier Connell, who sold out the bank and fled to the city of New York.

PITIFUL PLEA OF DEPOSITORS.
The distress of many of these depositors was pitiful to behold. It was "rent the rent" to the extent of $1,000, and if they could not get their money they would not have enough money to pay their rent.

They loudly denounced the officers of the bank, and said that had they been aware of the situation they would have withdrawn their accounts immediately.
